

Poems of Nature

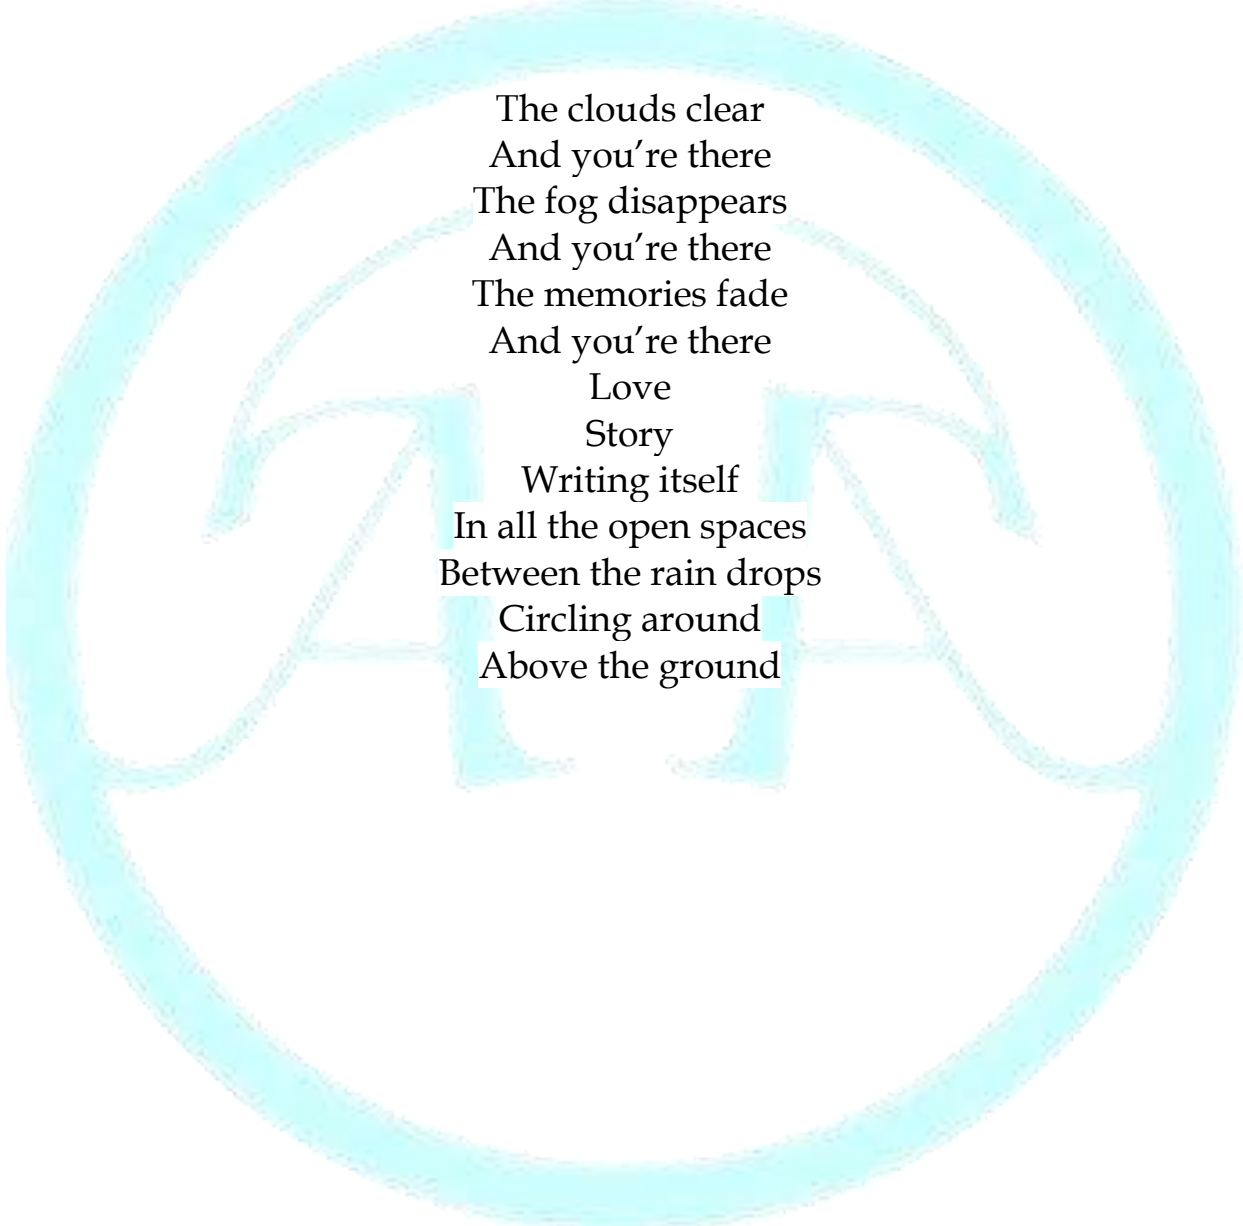

Inspired by love

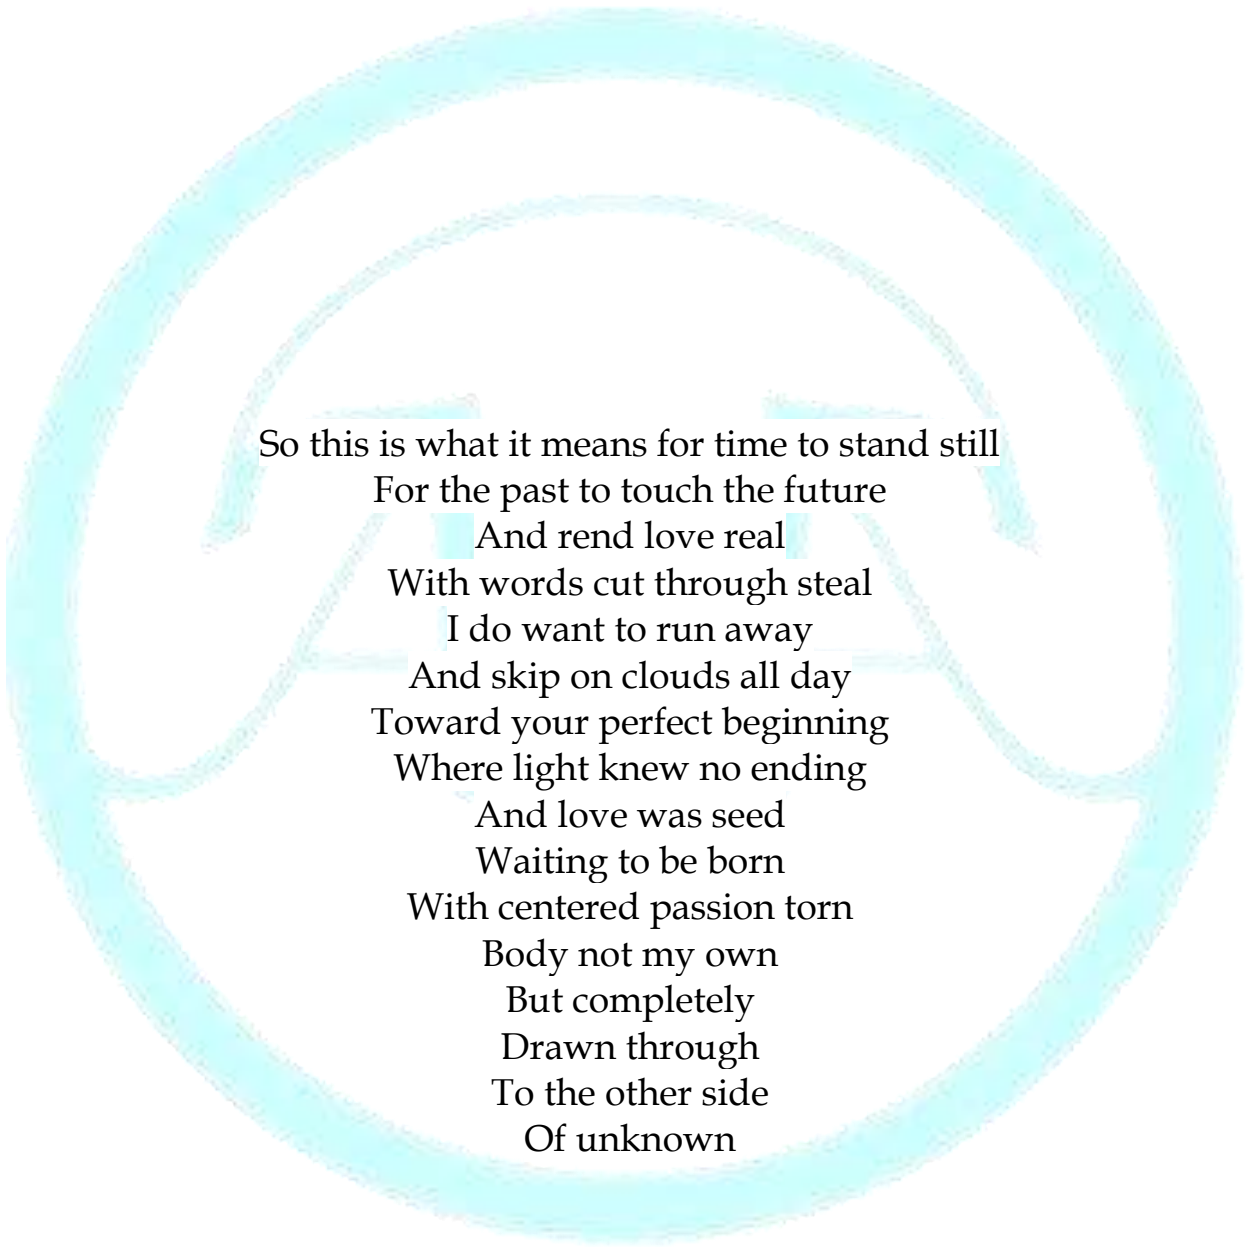

Anna Esther

Copyright © [2021] [Anna Esther]

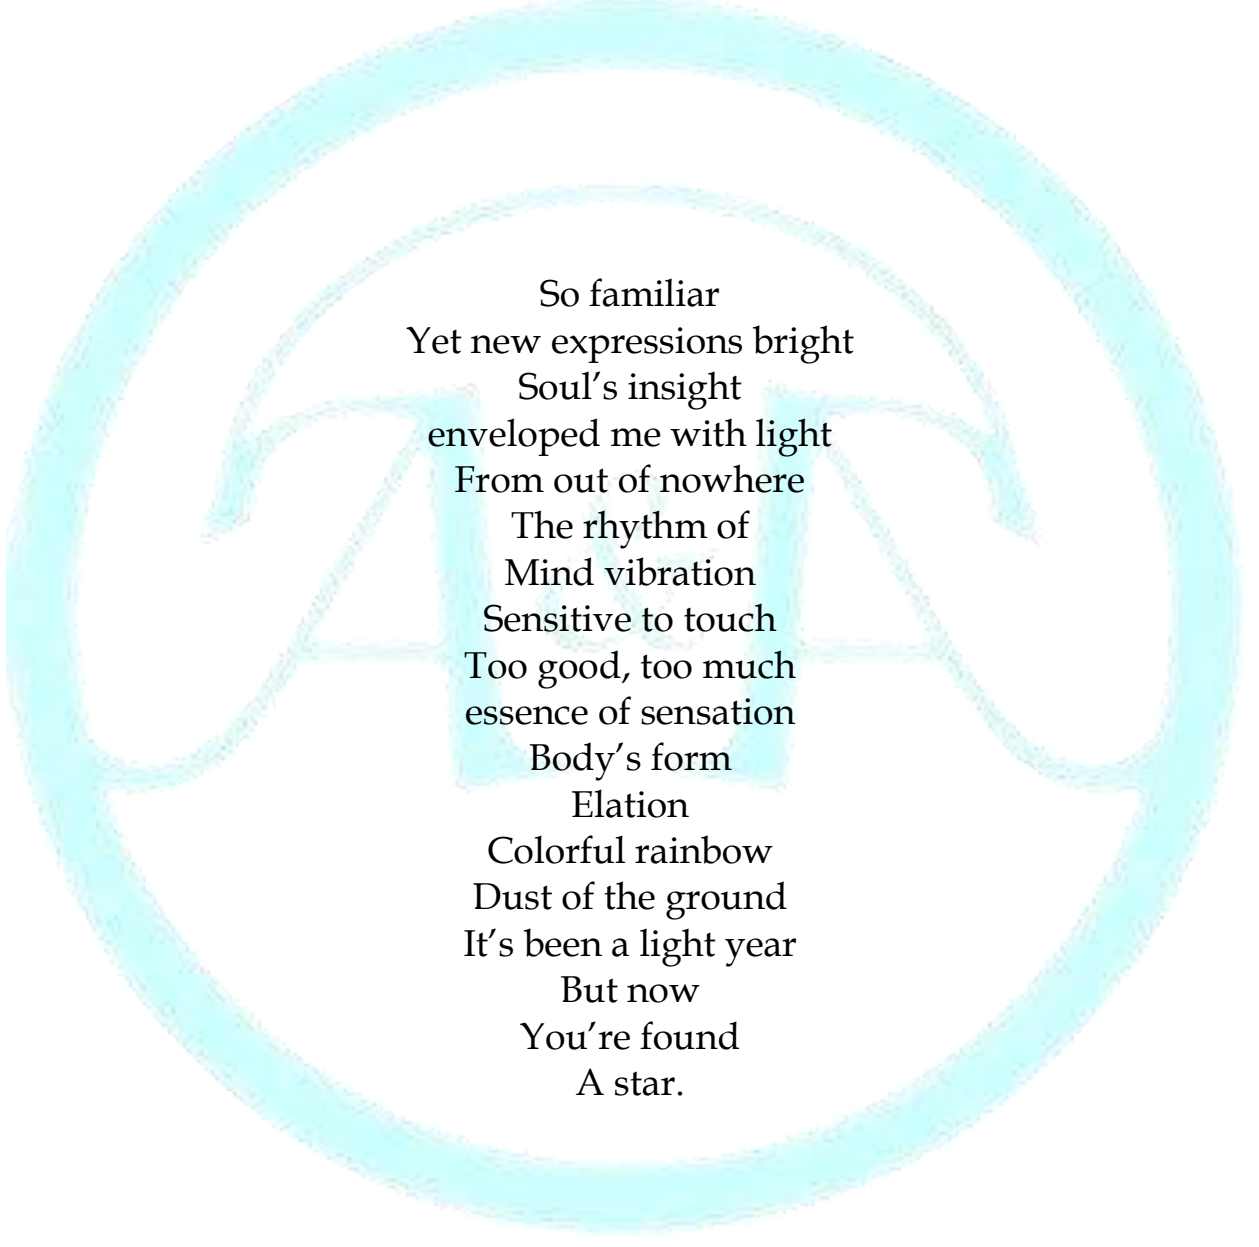

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced in any form without permission from the publisher, except as permitted by U.S. copyright law. For permissions contact: [anna@annaesther.com]

The clouds clear
And you're there
The fog disappears
And you're there
The memories fade
And you're there
Love
Story
Writing itself
In all the open spaces Between the rain drops Circling around
Above the ground

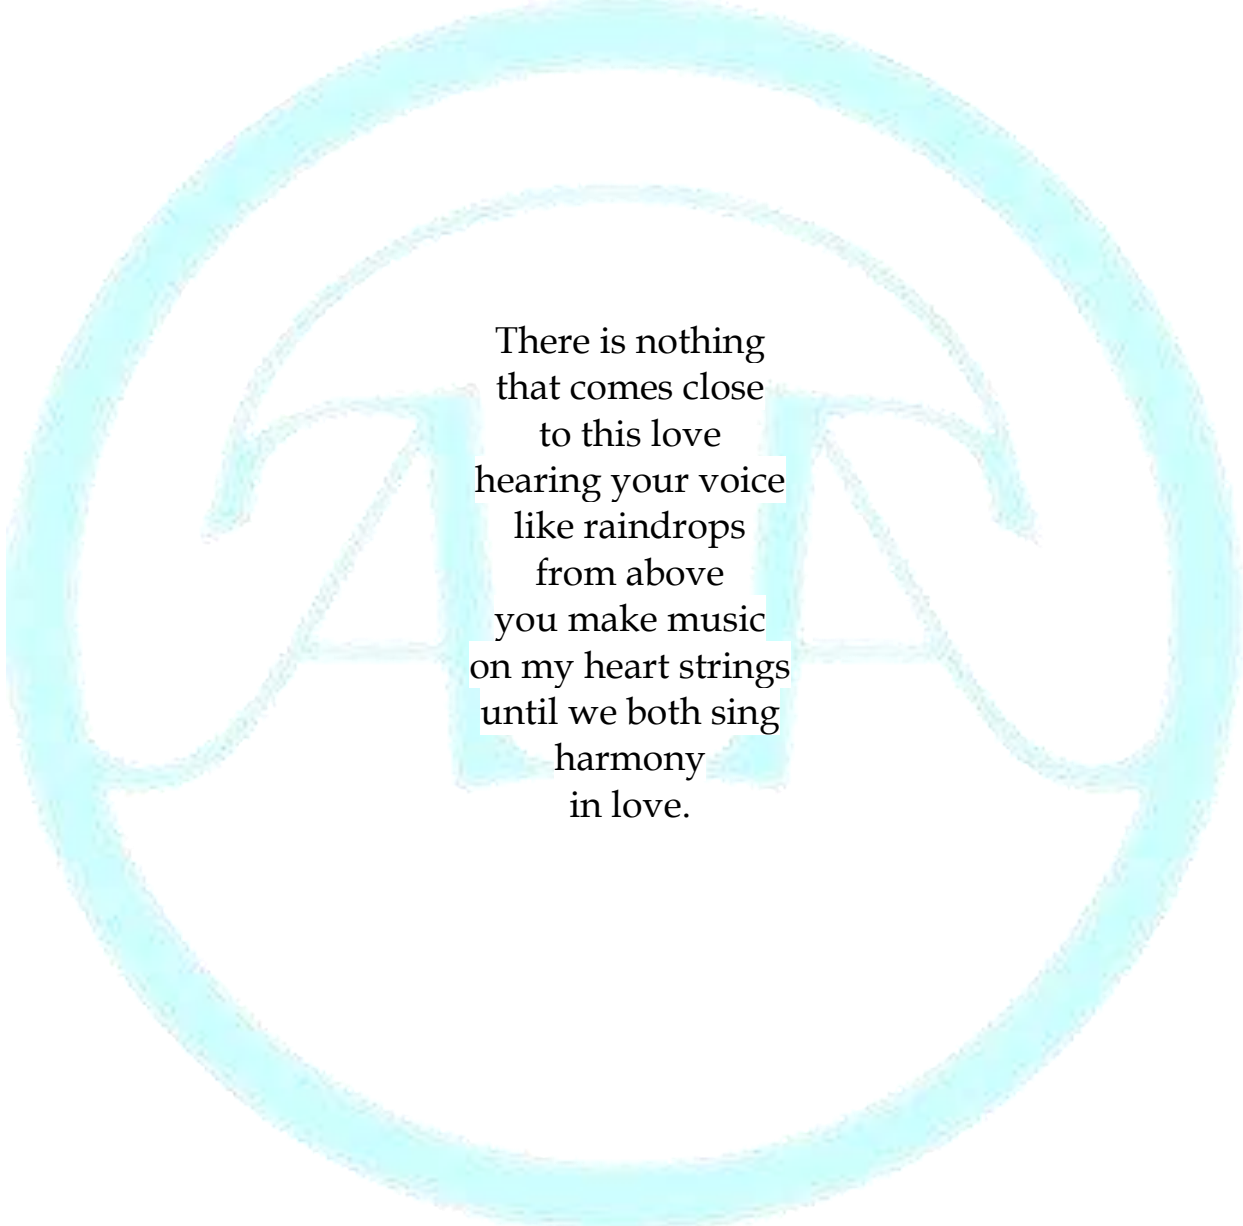

So this is what it means for time to stand still For the past to touch the future And rend love real With words cut through steal
I do want to run away
And skip on clouds all day Toward your perfect beginning Where light knew no ending And love was seed Waiting to be born With centered passion torn Body not my own
But completely Drawn through
To the other side Of unknown

So familiar Yet new expressions bright Soul's insight enveloped me with light From out of nowhere The rhythm of Mind vibration Sensitive to touch Too good, too much essence of sensation Body's form
Elation
Colorful rainbow
Dust of the ground
It's been a light year
But now You're found
A star.

Take me home to your mountain where springs your love from the fountain walk with me along the river silent touch my soul doth quiver eyes grow wide toes inside gasps delight with cool abide.

There is nothing that comes close to this love hearing your voice like raindrops from above you make music on my heart strings until we both sing harmony in love.

There are some things I thought I'd never make it through but I did even when I was a kid Catching fireflies underneath holes left room to breathe moments of flickering belief fear was the real thief.
Tip toe through the hallways corridors of your mind don't awake the sleeping giants who prefer to keep you blind keep staring out windows touch the spring breeze knock on doors of promise and open them with ease.
Because love is a portal through which mortals take one step at a time to wash their sins away till the dawn
the break of day but don't excuse the essence the healing power of lessons what your heart died to say.

Call you'll hear an answer turn your ear discern what's left to learn.

I can't explain a bubbling brook the feeling of love this nature looks beneath the surface of what touch finds where light shines like spirit through the clouds eternal now.

Sometimes I feel a deep pull within you sense it too mirror of love God reflection you.
Quickly moves the stream over what's settled it seems but picks up debris and carries away broken memories till all that's left is peace and quiet this mountain newborn fountains take a rest grandiose views all is blessed.

Peace
In the garden Flowers beauty Stains erased
All the past and pain
And tearful failures faced.

Trace the outline
Of our love
Along this rocky road Crackling leaves
Beneath our feet
Of broken treasured Retreat.

Longing to be one
With soul
Matching precision
Portal open Floating between Reality
Indecision. (Nov. 21, 2018)

You
Are the snow
In my crystal ball Where a world of wonder My inner child calls
You are the ornament Hanging delicate
From my tree
Sparkling reflection
Of all I dream to see.
You
Are the knowing That true love exists Quiet calm resolve Too sweet to resist.
You
Are complete understanding.

For all you want to see Where you wish to go Who you long to hold
And love you hope to know I'll paint the riverbank With scenes To draw you in Where sun and sultry flowers Awaken life again.
Row me to the middle of nowhere
But with you To dance
On dewy planets Discover worlds anew.

Poems of Nature

Inspired by love

Anna Esther

Copyright © [2021] [Anna Esther]

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced in any form without permission from the publisher, except as permitted by U.S. copyright law. For permissions contact: [anna@annaesther.com]